San Diego Repertory Theatre Announces Cast for Tony Award-Winning Fun Home, Opening Show of Season 43; September 6-30, 2018

Most acclaimed musical of 2015, ‘Fun Home’ won five Tony Awards including Best Musical, Best Book of a Musical, Best Original Score, Best Leading Actor and Actress in a Musical

San Diego Repertory Theatre announced the cast lineup for Fun Home, one of the most celebrated musicals in recent Broadway history. Fun Home is the coming-out memoir of Alison Bechdel, an exploration of family, memory, first love and a daughter’s relationship with her father. Fun Home was nominated for 12 Tony Awards in 2015 winning five including Best Musical, Best Book of a Musical, Best Original Score, Best Leading Actor and Actress in a Musical. Fun Home was also winner of the New York Drama Critics Circle Award for Best Musical, Outer Critics Circle Award for Outstanding Off-Broadway Musical and the Obie Award for Musical Theatre.

Fun Home is based on Alison Bechdel's witty and wistful graphic novel of the same name. Past and present blend magically as we see Alison at three different ages: as a young girl playing games in the family’s funeral home, as a college student joyously discovering her sexuality as a lesbian woman and now as an adult on an extraordinary quest to discover the truth about her father's secret life.

“I am in awe of the work from three incredible female artists that led to the musical Fun Home,” states the show’s director, Sam Woodhouse, who is also the artistic director of San Diego Repertory Theatre. “Alison Bechdel won the MacArthur Genius Award after the publication of her novel. Lisa Kron and Jeanine Tesori were the first female team in history to win the Tony Award for Best Musical and Best Score. The music of Fun Home seduces you from the first phrase and does not let you go until the final chord.”

Fun Home, aching with memories, centers on two fascinating people: the lesbian pioneer graphic novelist and activist Alison (yes, this is an autobiography of sorts) and her mercurial and unpredictable father Bruce who teaches English, runs a funeral home and loves antiques in ways he cannot love his children.

In the Detroit Free Press, Fun Home lyricist and book writer Lisa Kron was quoted saying, “Fun Home was easy in some ways to adapt because she and Bechdel have plenty in common.” Both she and Bechdel are gay and in their mid-50s, and both came of age in small colleges. Kron continued, “I was at Kalamazoo College at the same time she (Alison) was at Oberlin. Writing those dorm room scenes, I was pictured in my own dorm in Kalamazoo. When she was going to the gay union, I was picturing the women’s interest group, which was our version at Kalamazoo. So I felt like I knew that world pretty well.”

Jeanine Tesori’s score for Fun Home is a magically hypnotic composition telling the story through melodically rich songs that summon both heartache and joy. In 2015, Tesori gave an interview to the online publication, The Interval. When asked about her relationship with music: Is it the color thing? Is it emotional? She responded, “It’s everything. My music library goes from Stravinsky to The Pretenders to The Talking Heads. I don’t have cast albums. I love making them, but I never listen to them. I have a lot of world music—I produced a lot of world music when I was in my twenties and I worked in Nashville. So it’s really, really eclectic. I think I react emotionally. I have perfect pitch so I see a lot of things in colors. I also feel like music is oceanic—there’s no end to what you can discover. And I really like getting to know a culture by how they sound; where their history is and why it’s like that. All of that stuff really fascinates me.”
