San Diego Repertory Theatre announced today its Season 43, described as by Artistic Director Sam Woodhouse as “eloquent, personal and brave.” Next season is one of the most critically acclaimed lineup of plays that the REP has produced in many years. The REP proudly celebrates the work of female theatre artists, and four of the productions are by award-winning female playwrights. Since this is the REP, the audience can expect the important questions and issues of our time to be on stage, upfront and deeply personal. There is also the cultural exploration of love and loss and the return of actor/musician Hershey Felder, the best-selling artist in San Diego REP history, in a spellbinding performance of Beethoven!

Subscriptions for the Tony Award- and Pulitzer Prize-winning 2018-2019 season are available now. Highlights of the comedy, drama and music throughout Season 43, which runs September through May, include:

- FUN HOME, Tony Award-Winner for Best Musical: Also winner of the New York Drama Critics Circle Award for Best Musical, Outer Critics Circle Award for Outstanding Off-Broadway Musical and the Obie Award for Musical Theater. Fun Home is the coming-out memoir of Alison Bechdel, an exploration of family, memory, first love and a daughter’s relationship with her father.

- A DOLL’S HOUSE, PART 2: A door slams. Fifteen years later Nora is back. Based on Henrik Ibsen’s classic play and nominated for eight Tony Awards including Best Play.
• ACTUALLY: What actually happened? Playwright Anna Ziegler investigates gender, politics and the three sides to every story. Winner of the Southern California’s Ovation Award for Best Production of a Play.

• AUBERGINE: Comfort food takes on a new meaning in Julia Cho’s drama about a Korean-American chef taking charge of his dying father’s care where a perfect meal can have magical, life-giving properties. Aubergine delivers a moving meditation on love, loss and the emotional power of food.

• HERSHEY FELDER, BEETHOVEN: A return of a Hershey Felder, best-selling artist in San Diego REP history (Our Great Tchaikovsky). Felder takes center stage as the young boy, Gerhard von Breuning, Beethoven’s best friend’s son who took care of Beethoven in his last two years. Through him, Felder brings Beethoven to life featuring some of Beethoven’s greatest works played live including Symphony No. 9, Emperor Concerto and Moonlight Sonata.

• SWEAT: Winner of the 2017 Pulitzer Prize for Drama and nominated for the Tony Award for Best Play, Lynn Nottage goes where few playwrights have dared to go—into the heart of working-class America. Her insightfully observed characters all went to the same schools, work at the same factory, drink at the same bar and are going to hell in the same hand basket.

“Next season’s productions will cover a variety of topics including LGBT issues, female empowerment, sexual consent, race, class and corporations versus unions—the same issues that make the headlines and shape our lives each day,” stated Woodhouse.

ACTUALLY / Lyceum Space
By Anna Ziegler / Directed by Jesca Prudencio
Dates:  October 11 – November 4, 2018 (Press Opening: Wednesday, October 17, 2018)

At a raucous party during their freshman year at Princeton, Tom and Amber connect in ways that seem innocent enough at first. But as the night heats up, they find themselves in murky territory with ramifications that could affect the rest of their lives. What actually happened between them? Tackling the highly charged topic of sexual consent, this intimate and surprising drama explores the intersection of gender and race on college campus today. When it comes to sex, what is consent and when can it be given? If you don’t remember giving it, does sex become assault? Deeply-felt, funny and extraordinarily provocative, fast-rising playwright Anna Ziegler’s new play is an intricate and psychologically complex jigsaw puzzle. Crafted with compassion and profound insight, Actually leaves it to the audience to grapple with the grey area of truth, where there are three sides to every story.

A DOLL’S HOUSE, PART 2 / Lyceum Stage
Nominated for eight Tony Awards including Best Play
By Lucas Hnath / Directed by Sam Woodhouse

Henrik Ibsen’s 1879 masterpiece took Europe by storm - attacked the social and cultural norms of its day. Nora Helmer is a young wife trapped inside a suffocating, loveless marriage. At the end of Ibsen’s classic play A Doll’s House, Nora makes the radical decision to walk away from her marriage and her children to pursue an independent life. Nora literally walks out the door and slams it behind her to announce her shocking departure and plunge into a terrifying life of freedom without boundaries. Lucas Hnath’s sharp-witted sequel A Doll’s House, Part 2 begins with a knock on that same door fifteen years later. Nora is back with a personal story of freedom and independence that is very modern and very familiar. A Doll’s House, Part 2, which garnered eight Tony Award nominations, is a blistering and very funny meditation on marriage and the high cost of personal fulfillment.

By Julia Cho / Directed by Todd Salovey
Dates:  January 24 – February 17, 2019 (Press Opening: Wednesday, January 30, 2019)

Ray believes in the power of food. As a gourmet chef, he’s seen a bowl of berries help a woman to fall in love. He’s heard stories of a meal prepared by a mother to keep her son from leaving home and moving to the other side of the world. Now with the help of his uncle, who arrives unexpectedly from Korea, Ray is tasked with preparing a family soup recipe to keep his father alive. Aubergine is a mouthwatering meditation on the beauty of life where hope is no mere ingredient—it’s the main course.
